Phil Clark Named Interim Executive Director of Compass of Carolina While Continuing to Lead Just Say Something

Greenville, South Carolina – August 12, 2025

Just Say Something is proud to announce that its CEO, Phil Clark, has also been appointed as the Interim Executive Director of Compass of Carolina, effective July 15, 2025. This dual leadership role reflects a growing commitment to collaboration, innovation, and more responsive community service across Greenville and the surrounding areas.

Clark brings decades of experience in nonprofit leadership, youth and family services, and organizational strategy. In this expanded role, he will focus on reviewing internal processes, strengthening partnerships, and enhancing service delivery across Compass's 22 weekly programs. His goal is to ensure both organizations operate efficiently, remain deeply mission-driven, and continue to meet the evolving needs of individuals and families in the community.

"I'm excited to step into this role with Compass of Carolina and build on the incredible work that's already happening," said Clark. "There's tremendous opportunity to align our missions, create more intentional referrals, and be even better stewards of the resources entrusted to us."

With Clark leading both organizations, Just Say Something and Compass of Carolina will begin actively identifying areas for cross-referrals, increased operational alignment, and shared community outreach where it makes sense. The leadership and staff of both organizations believe this is a unique opportunity to improve outcomes, eliminate service gaps, and maximize the impact of every dollar invested in prevention and support services.

About Just Say Something

Just Say Something is a Greenville-based nonprofit dedicated to helping youth, parents, and communities have open, honest conversations about drugs, alcohol, and other risky behaviors. Through prevention education, youth leadership programs, and parenting support, the organization empowers families to make healthier decisions and build stronger relationships.
